Perspective

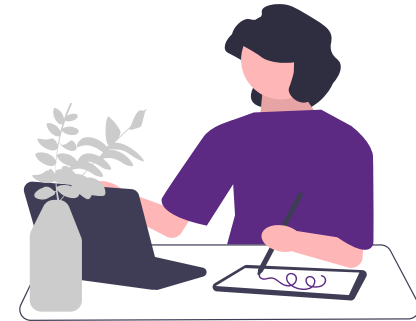

Used to work as an event manager in festivals and in cinema as an assistant director.

Little did I know it was so close to being a product owner / scrum master.

As a not so technician person, you have a different point of view on the application and you can translate a user need to a developer.

Let's take a look at the choices that we made!

What's Pristy?

- Open-source (libre) application
- Electronic Document Management (EDM)
- Based on Alfresco with a new interface
- User-centric interface
- Integrates Collabora as an online editor

Why Pristy?

- Improve and control the interface
- Add new features
- Simplify the overall use

The importance of a product owner for Pristy :

- Understanding the user needs, when they don't really know what they want
- For an EDM, making the right choices between what's usually done and what can be done differently
